treasurer accused

By DARYL GIBSON
Universe Staff Writer

Charging a violation of state law were leveled on Stanley Walker, treasurer of the League of Women Voters against Utah, after a regular meeting, charged that Walker had been soliciting funds from a county clerk's office on the merit system, according to a spokesman for the league.

Walker, any person who "willfully violates any law, any person who contributes to the establishment of the merit system is guilty of a crime."

The act states that person, if found guilty, is guilty of a crime.

Section 17-33-14 of the Utah Code states that no county official "whether elected or appointed or indirectly coerced, command, or any officer or employee covered under the merit system, shall solicit or contribute to the payment of any person for political purposes."

Walker, who is treasurer of a group proposed structural changes in Utah County, solicited funds from County Personnel Director Nordgren.

Nordgren, who has reached Nordgren, who was his job several weeks ago, and asked him if he would contribute. She said he stated that he would contribute.

Walker was out of town Monday and could not be reached for further comment.

League officials have stated that they were in favor of the proposed change in government. Mrs. Murphy was a member of the commission that drafted the document.

A merit employee is defined by the state code as one that is in a position that is not determined by election, where he works primarily on his own merit. Reikes in salary or increased duties are governed by the amount of work that he puts into the job in the system.

U.S. losing respect in Africa

By SUE CLASON
Universe Staff Writer

States is losing respect among all the nations because of its intervention in South Africa, a general opinion of interviewed Nigerian students.

The black brothers and sisters from the United States are the whites' by all Africans nations. They are high command and using force is the way to the unrest in South Africa, said Oyande, a senior in physical education.

He opposed to the lip-service offered to the blacks by powerful nations of the United States.

One thing but then turn around and do the same. The United States is a great nation and is playing a big part in the affairs of any nation. But it should quit playing a part and quit being so wishy-washy.

The government continues to play a middle game," said Oyande. "A clear line of its supporting the policy of the United States representative in the United States vetoing the Third World Nations' forcing the security council of the U.N. to embargo on South African nations' Third World nations."

"The U.S. has a lot of involvement in South Africa, but I doubt the sincerity of that involvement," said Akpan Osom, a graduate student in accounting. "No one is verbally supporting the white policy in South Africa, but financially the U.S. supports them with guns and weapons," continued Osom.

A month ago in the township of Soweto 300 black youth were killed during riots. "The white police employed the use of guns in dispersing the crowd, which is inhuman," said Oyande.

"If the blacks in America are a minority then why can't the whites in South Africa accept their position as a minority," said Regina Osom, a senior in math. "If integration in the U.S. is possible than it can be the same elsewhere," Mrs. Osom continued.

Mrs. Osom compared the situation of the blacks in South Africa to that of the Israelis when they were under Egyptian domination and had no rights. The whites deny the blacks all their rights, such as the right to worship where they please, equal pay in jobs and the same educational opportunities, she said.

The apartheid policy of separatism is "inhuman," said Oyande. "We are all created by the same God, therefore we are equal. But the blacks in South Africa are in chains and have no chance to prove themselves. The road to progress for the blacks has been shut because they are not allowed to set goals for themselves in terms of anything," Oyande said.

The whites as a group of people in South Africa, said Osom, "are stubborn and cannot hear the outcry from the black people. They refuse to conform to the world's standard of integration and equality."

Because the whites feel they are the ruling class and must impose their will on the blacks and oppress them. "The only suitable solution will be war and forcing the whites out of South Africa," said Osom.

"No human ever expects force from another because each has individual rights," said Mrs. Osom.

"Peaceful means have brought no change in the past thus forceful means are the only solution. Forcing prime minister, of South Africa to give up the policy of apartheid and integrate blacks in the same line as whites is necessary," said Oyande.

"A fear of the whites is that the blacks want vengeance and bloodshed. Blacks are humans and have feelings also. They want to live peacefully with the whites," said Oyande.

"But if the presence of the whites is at the expense of black lives, it is better that they leave," said Mrs. Osom.

"The solution to the problem must come from within the African nations," said Osom. "Only the blacks can take care of their own problems."

Demo, GOP spokesmen schedule speeches at Y

Representatives of the Republican and Democratic parties will address BYU students and area residents in the Marriott Center Wednesday and Thursday at 10 a.m.

All classes will be dismissed for both assemblies, according to Robert J. Smith, associate vice president of academics. The classes will not be rescheduled.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan will be the spokesman for the Republican party on Wednesday and Utah Gov. Calvin R. Rampton will represent the Democratic party in Thursday's assembly.

BYU has a standing policy in presidential election years of inviting a representative from each of the two major political parties to speak at a forum assembly. The assemblies are to inform students and the public of the issues and acquaint them with the party's national and state candidates.

Reagan will arrive late Tuesday night at the Provo airport. According to David R. Lyon, director of university relations, a brief conference limited to the news media may be held before each assembly.

Reagan will address Weber State College at 1 p.m. Wednesday following his Provo address. He will attend a fund-raising dinner in behalf of senate candidate Orrin Hatch in Salt Lake City that night.

On the stand at both assemblies will be party candidates and representatives from the Republican camp on Wednesday and the Democrats on Thursday.

Pres. Dallin H. Oaks said that BYU had invited Gov. Jimmy Carter and Sen. Walter Mondale, Democratic presidential and vice presidential candidates, who were unable to attend. The Democratic Party then designated Gov. Rampton to represent the party at the assembly on Thursday.

Both assemblies are open to the public and both will be covered live by KBYU-TV, Channel 11.

Reagan, who served two terms as governor of California, made an unsuccessful bid against Gerald R. Ford for the GOP nomination for president. Since the completion of his term as governor, he has written a weekly syndicated newspaper column, held a daily commentary which is broadcast over nearly 300 radio stations and appeared in various speaking engagements across the nation.

Before embarking on his political career, Reagan was best known as a popular film actor and producer. He has 50 feature films to his credit and also hosted and acted in the television series "Death Valley Days."

Gov. Rampton, who has served three terms as governor of Utah, is not seeking re-election this year. His leadership ability was recognized by the state governors of the United States when they elected him chairman of the National Governor's Conference for 1974-75.

In 1972 Rampton was selected to receive the first annual BYU "Outstanding Public Administrator of the Year" Award. The award was presented by the BYU Master of Public Administration Association and the Institute of Government Services.

A plaque presented to him at that time cited him for "overall excellence of leadership in administering governmental affairs for the State of Utah." It continued: "Through his personal interest, a new sense of professionalism was introduced into state government."

Gov. Rampton, a Bountiful native, attended George Washington University and completed his LL.B. degree at the University of Utah Law School in 1940. While in Washington D.C., he served as the administrative assistant to Utah Congressman J.W. Robinson.

In Utah he has served as Davis County Attorney and Assistant State Attorney General.

Today last chance to register to vote

The deadline for voter registration in Utah County for the upcoming November 2 election is today.

Anyone planning to register must do so between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. in his or her respective voting district. The county clerk's office will not be handling any more registration through that office.

Those who will not be voting in their local voting districts on November 2 should obtain absentee ballots from the county clerk's office in the Utah County Building between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Fines lower for auto violation if case appealed, statistics say

By TERRY MANNING
Universe Staff Writer

Fifteen per cent of the students appealing non-moving violations in September were charged the full fine and 24 per cent had their fines reduced. These students made up the 74 per cent found guilty.

These statistics, compiled by a member of the Attorney General's Office, cover the time from the beginning of fall semester to Sept. 27. During that time, BYU Traffic Court handled 110 cases involving non-moving violations.

Non-moving violations include improper zone parking, failure to register, improper display of permit, failure to obey signs, parking in a service area, an unmarked area, a dean's stall, a cycle area, a handicapped stall without a proper sticker or by a yellow curb, blocking a road or driveway and riding a bicycle on the sidewalk or parking it outside the racks.

According to John Chaffin, the ASBYU Attorney General, traffic citations are issued by Security. "BYU will probably issue somewhere around 20,000 tickets this year. About 2,500 to 3,000 will be appealed," he said.

A student can appeal a citation by taking it to Traffic Court, where he can be represented by a student defender. The case is then by a judge of the Common Court system.

A representative of the Attorney General's Office acts as prosecutor. According to Robby Messerly, the acting senior justice of the Common Court system, the criteria for reducing fines are such things as first offense and inexperience with no experience driving on campus.

A fine may be suspended for a person in an emergency or a person who "thought he was really right," he said.

"Most of the appeals are guilty, but the question is how guilty. $20 worth, $15 worth," he said. "We try to make it worth their while to appeal the ticket, if they feel they are right. The leniency is in favor of the student."

June Babiracki, the ASBYU student defender, said more fines have been suspended or reduced this year than last year, in a personal opinion, I feel the courts are more lenient."

Miss Babiracki said she feels very few students are trying to get away with anything. "It's just not worth it unless they're sincere," she said. "And generally, I think the rulings have been fair."

Chaffin said a student doesn't always pay full fine because he was able to show that an extenuating circumstance did exist.

According to Golden Hardy, traffic coordinator for Security, students are found not guilty because of such things as signs not properly placed and paint worn off. "Some students will plead ignorance," he said. "Not all, but some will get off on pleading ignorance."

Messerly said students are found not guilty because of such things as officers not seeing the student's proper sticker, missing signs, recent changes, improperly written tickets, mistakes on an officer's part and construction.

"The first month we are pretty lenient with beginning freshmen, but now we may be a little harder," she said.

Miss Babiracki said students are found not guilty because of incorrectly filled out tickets or lack of jurisdiction—the person isn't a student or was not on BYU property.

Sometimes, "the person really wasn't in violation. This is fairly rare. My experience with Security is that they are a fairly competent group," she said.

First priority deadline Nov. 5 as winter registration opens

Students may begin registering for winter semester now, according to Douglas J. Bell, assistant registrar.

Class schedules may be purchased in the Bookstore or at the Registration Office for 50 cents. One registration form is included with each class schedule. Additional forms may be picked up from the college advisement centers, Bell said.

The first priority deadline for submitting forms is Nov. 5. Students are to turn the registration forms to their advisement centers. Bell explained that students who meet the first priority deadline will receive a confirmation form by mail approximately Dec. 5.

Bell encouraged students to meet the first priority deadline. Over 20,000 students met fall semester's first priority deadline, he said. The registration office expects winter semester to be about the same.

Any student who misses the first priority deadline will run the risk of not getting his ideal schedule, Bell said. Many classes will be filled and will not be available for students who meet later deadlines, he said.

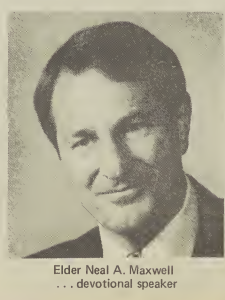

Students should plan carefully and fill out their registration form, Bell said.

Many students fill out the maximum hours box and credit hours incorrectly. The hours should be listed in total hours and tenths, 15.0 or 14.5 for example, he said.

Students should also use all 12 spaces in the ideal schedule. The computer will scan this box first and include any open class until the maximum hours limit is reached, Bell said. The computer will then check the alternate classes and class reservoir.

Bell added that care should be taken to print numbers exactly like the examples on the form.

Elder Maxwell to give Y devotional address

Elder Neal A. Maxwell, sustained this month as a member of the First Council of Seventy, will be the devotional speaker today at 10 a.m. in the Marriott Center.

Formerly, Elder Maxwell was an Assistant of the Council of the Twelve and served as Church Commissioner of Education. He has also served as Regional Representative of the Council of Twelve.

Civic positions held by Elder Maxwell have included chairman of the Utah Constitutional Revision Commission, a member of the Board of Governors of the Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce and vice president of the Utah Symphony Board. For 10 years he moderated a weekly television show called "Tell Me." He is also the author of six books and many articles.

'Holy Places' topic of lecture

The Last Lecture Series sponsored by the Academics Office will feature Dr. Max L. Waters today at 4 p.m. in the East Ballroom, ELWC.

Dr. Waters teaches in the honors program and is a professor in the business department. The title for the speech is, "Stand Ye in Holy Places."

The Last Lecture Series is set up astensibly as the speaker's last opportunity to address an audience.

Ford, Carter enter final week

President Ford, stressing economic themes in his last pre-election visit to crucial California and other Western states, promised Monday to hold down federal spending because it contributes to inflation that is "just another high tax."

Meanwhile, in Plains, Ga., Democrat Jimmy Carter made preparations for his own coast-to-coast trip that will keep him moving in search of votes until the eve of the election showdown with Ford on Nov. 2.

Aides to Carter said the Democratic nominee would issue a statement on the environment before his scheduled departure for South Carolina and Illinois. He will visit eight states, including six of the largest where strategists for both campaigns believe the election may be decided. Polls show Carter slightly ahead, slightly behind or running neck-and-neck with Ford in these areas.

These include California, New York, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas. Ford is covering much of the same ground on a campaign-closing barnstorming tour which — like Carter's — is accompanied by a media blitz of radio and television appearances.

Ford declared, during a visit to Seattle, a city troubled by high unemployment, that his recent proposal to require aircraft noise reduction would result in 250,000 new jobs for the aircraft construction industry.

Touring California on Sunday, he appeared on statewide television in a campaign-sponsored "interview" with sports broadcaster Joe Garagiola, who is a Ford volunteer. Similar live programs are planned as Ford visits four and perhaps five other major states.

Emphasizing a theme that his administration has the record and the experience to merit voter approval, Ford argued that Carter would imperil U.S. security by slashing $5 billion from the $12 billion defense budget — a measure that the Democrat insists can be carried out simply by cutting waste.

Ford said, "I don't challenge Mr. Carter's good intentions, but I do challenge his programs."

In a speech to be broadcast on the Mutual radio network, the President promised to restrain federal spending because it contributes to inflation. "I don't believe the American people should be taxed any more, and inflation is just another high tax," he declared.

Ford cited Department of Labor consumer price index figures showing that during his administration, the annual rate of inflation has dropped from 12 per cent to less than 6 per cent.

The vice-presidential candidate were campaigning in the Northeast, with Democratic Sen. Walter F. Mondale moving from talks with Pennsylvania steelworkers to New Jersey.

Mondale's day began badly when, through a staff snafu, he reached the gates of the U.S. Steel Corp. plant in Duquesne, Pa., five minutes too late to greet all but a handful of 1,700 workers changing shifts.

The candidate laughed it off, saying it resulted from "detailed planning and careful calibration." He added, "We are on our way, things are moving, they can't get worse" — partially referring to the gloomy weather slowing his campaign schedule.

Later, Mondale breakfasted with steelworkers at a Duquesne cafe and called the area's 14 per cent unemployment rate "the reality of what's going on." In New Jersey, another populous state where the election is judged tight and the Democratic organization is split, Mondale blamed the GOP for an unemployment problem among Vietnam veterans. He said that among those 20 to 24 years old, one in five is without a job.

Chamber in Provo against proposed budget ceiling act

The Provo Chamber of Commerce has passed a resolution opposing the Budgetary Procedure Ceiling Act Initiative on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The initiative, which voters will decide Nov. 2, would impose a five-year annual budget ceiling of $915,300,000 beginning next year.

The resolution, passed Wednesday, opposed the ceiling initiative for the following reasons:

— the proposal, the resolution says, would throw Utah state and local government into financial chaos.

— the proposal would burden Utahns with vastly increased taxes, according to the resolution.

— the resolution says such a proposal would seriously affect the education of children.

— the proposal would seriously cripple the present highway system, according to the Chamber.

— the resolution of the Chamber of Commerce says the proposal would seriously affect the standard of living in Utah.

The Chamber of Commerce passed the resolution saying the ceiling proposed is unrealistic, and the required phase-out of federal funds would require a doubling of the sales tax or an increase in property taxes.

Government improvement to be weighed

A press conference will be held today at 9 a.m. to discuss the costs of Utah County's present form of government as compared to the proposed form of county council government.

The change to county council government is on the Nov. 2 general election ballot. It involves creating a county council, county manager type of government, according to the proposal.

The costs of operating under county council governments in other parts of the United States will be discussed at the meeting, according to John Sorenson, spokesman for the Committee for Improvement of Utah County Government, sponsors of the event.

He said that the meeting would focus on explaining the economics of the proposed form of government, using a study done by the BYU economics department.

Ski movie starts today

The Social Office is sponsoring a "Non-commercial break," starting today and lasting through the week.

A videotape freestyle-ski movie is being offered from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. every day in the Reception Center, ELWC. A billboard will be posted in the Reception Center, with up-to-date information on social activities at the Y.

In conjunction with the week, K-2 Ski Company's demonstration team will set up a ramp on the quad between the ELWC and the HFAC. These demonstrations will take place on every break between classes and for the hour from 12 to 1 p.m. throughout the week.

Types of fire, extinguishers to be shown

What BYU fire extinguishers can and cannot do will be the subject of a demonstration today and tomorrow at 2 p.m.

According to BYU's Fire Marshall Gerald L. Mathews, the demonstration will be held in the lot west of the stadium parking lot and south of the rodeo grounds.

Mathews, who is also the assistant manager of campus safety, said the demonstration is held yearly during fire prevention month. It is designed to acquaint BYU employees with the use of fire extinguishers, but Mathews said everyone is welcome.

It will be cancelled in the event of rain or snow, he said.

"BYU has three types of fire extinguishers," he said, "dry chemical, carbon dioxide and pressurized water." The type of fire each is used for will be explained.

The Campus Safety Office will give the demonstrations, Mathews said.

They have sent notices to campus areas where fire is a concern.

Those who attend will be able to use the fire extinguishers to put out different types of fires Mathews said.

He added that BYU has "lots" of fire extinguishers, and reminded students it is against the law to remove or use fire extinguishers except in the case of fire.

Computer exec to speak

The "Needs and Applications of Computers in the Business World," will be the topic of a computer science seminar, today at 3 p.m. in 455 MARB.

Hyrum Smith, vice president of a Portland, Ore., firm which specializes in supplying computing services to businesses not desiring a company-owned computer, will be the featured speaker, according to Dr. Robert P. Burton, seminar adviser.

Alaskans to vote for new capital, location might be next to Houston

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — When the dust clears on election day, Alaskans may find they've voted to move the state capital within a stone's throw of Houston — Houston, Alaska, that is, population 170.

Voters are choosing between three sites on Nov. 2, two years after they approved an initiative mandating the move of the state capital from Juneau.

Many critics say the proposal, which had been rejected in a similar vote several years earlier, was passed with support from newcomers associated with pipeline construction. They feel many of these people favor growth and change, at any cost.

The site many believe will be chosen is Willow South, which is right next door to Houston.

Despite the critics, however, there are compelling reasons for the move.

Alaska's present capital is in a remote area, Juneau, located on the state's Southeastern Peninsula, is more than 600 miles from the majority of the state's residents. It can only be reached by boat or air.

Supporters of the move say Alaskans should have better access to the state capital and legislators. The three proposed sites are within 350 miles of the bulk of the state's population. Road access could be provided to all three.

Willow South, which is the closest to Anchorage, only 70 miles away. The Anchorage area has roughly half the state's population and planners say Willow South would be the least expensive site at a cost of $520 million to the state.

Larson Lake, which is 120 miles from Anchorage near Mt. McKinley. Planners say it would cost the state $546 million.

Mt. Yenlo, which is a wilderness area with no roads and 108 miles from Anchorage and would cost $547 million to develop.

All three sites are forested with birch and spruce, have an average winter temperature of 10 degrees and an average summer temperature in the mid-50s.

Church leaders urge Nov. 2 vote

Members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints have been urged to join with other Americans in exercising their franchise carefully and prayerfully in national, state and local elections Nov. 2.

In a letter to church officers throughout the United States, the First Presidency, chief governing body of the LDS church, asked that the following message be read to church members in their Sunday worship services before election day:

"Under the divinely-inspired Constitution of these United States, the choice of leadership in government rests with the governed."

"The choices of government leaders will be better if more of the citizenry vote in the upcoming general election, and if those who vote do so carefully and prayerfully."

"We urge all members of the Church, and all Americans who are eligible to vote, to exercise that sacred privilege or duty on Nov. 2.

"We reaffirm that the Church does not endorse parties or candidates for office. However, we encourage members as citizens to support those issues and candidates which they feel will make our communities more wholesome places in which to live and raise a family."

"In this Bicentennial year, we have all been reminded of those changeless principles and practices which have helped make America great. Let us protect them, actively."

"Let us tell the world that freedom lives in this blessed land, beginning at the ballot box."

The letter was signed by Church President Spencer W. Kimball, world leader of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and President N. Eldon Tanner and President Marion G. Romney, counselors in the First Presidency.

Gulf Oil grants $4,800 to geology department

The BYU Department of Geology has received a grant of $4,800 from Gulf Oil Foundation, according to Donald T. Nelson, director of The Development Office of the LDS Church.

Dr. Morris S. Petersen, chairman of the Geology Department, reported that $3,800 has been awarded as a fellowship to graduate student Tom Anderson. The remaining $1,000 goes directly to the department.

Anderson, 1973 graduate of BYU, studied for one year at California Institute of Technology before returning to BYU to complete his graduate work. His emphasis is on the study of the origin and development of land forms.

"It was really quite a surprise when I was told I had been selected for the fellowship," he explained. "I'm really grateful to the Foundation and the department for their support."

After graduation Anderson is hoping to work in industry or obtain a teaching position in a junior college. He is presently teaching a geology lab and assisting a faculty member with a research project as part of his graduate program.

The Gulf Oil Foundation was established to aid university departments and students in their educational pursuits. Grants are made to institutions throughout the United States in all areas of study.

Dean Eliason, a graduate student in Food Science looks through a microscope which is part of the Benson Institute food research.

Institute's programs focus on food needs

By BRUCE LLOYD
Universe Staff Writer

The Ezra Taft Benson Institute on campus may someday assist the world and the Mormon church in taking care of its growing nutritional and food supply needs, according to a member of the institute.

D. Delos Ellsworth, associate director of the institute said, "Our major function is to help church members improve their self-sufficiency in food and nutrition capabilities." The privately funded institute does agricultural and food research for the church and outside the church, said Ellsworth.

The projects of the Benson Institute vary, said Ellsworth. There is a quality control lab for the church's welfare system, he said. Last summer the institute conducted a project to measure the different yields from different sized plots of ground. The church has also asked the institute to develop a criteria for home storage and gardening for each country in the world.

As a result of the institute, a new class is being offered to students this semester and in subsequent semesters. The class, numbered 210, is offered in three areas of study: agronomy and horticulture, food science and family management. Students in the class learn how to raise a garden, how to store and preserve food and the economics of raising a garden, said Ellsworth.

The quality control lab for the church welfare system is headed by Hal Johnson. According to Johnson, the purpose of the lab is to check the quality and content of all foods produced and canned by the church. The lab also does research and development on new foods. Sometimes members of the church, who do the church canning, have the attitude that it doesn't matter what goes in the can because it's going to welfare recipients, said Johnson. For this reason, lab workers test various samples of church canned foods to insure their quality. Church canned foods are "as good or better" than the food we buy on the shelf said Johnson.

The purpose of the garden plots project is threefold, according to Dr. Laren R. Robison, director of the project. 1) How much food can be produced in a container on a patio or window box; 2) The amount of production one can get off a given area of land under intensive management; and 3) What effect it would have on a person's ability to grow food in limited space if he had no access to the companies that produce fertilizers and pesticides.

If a person wants to know whether it's worth his time and money to plant a garden in a 5' x 5' space, the answer is yes, said Dr. Robison.

The project also includes studies in tropical agriculture. This part of the project is designed to help members of the church in tropical areas to produce a "growing" home storage, said Dr. Robison. The Benson Institute received its name in honor of former secretary of agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson. The institute is now a year old and is still trying to raise a $3.5 million endowment fund to become self-sufficient.

Six law students to test court skills

Six BYU law students will appear before a panel of three judges to practice their skills in court argument today at 4 p.m. in 303 JRCB.

The court will be a rehearsal for the students, who will argue in Phoenix, Ariz. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, according to Craig Terry, administrative director of the Board of Advocates.

They will argue in competition against students from the University of Denver, the University of Wyoming, University of New Mexico, Arizona State University, and the University of Arizona.

Y professor to get service award

Jane Leifson, associate professor of nursing at BYU has been selected to receive the Alumni Distinguished Service Award at a special College of Nursing student-faculty workshop in the Wilkinson Center Wednesday at 9 a.m. Dr. Maxine J. Cope, college dean, will make the presentation.

The award is given to BYU alumni who have distinguished themselves by outstanding service to their professions, communities, nation, or church. Miss Leifson received a B.S. degree at BYU in 1957 in nursing, and the master's degree in public health nursing from Wayne State University in 1964. She is presently working for her Ph.D. in child development and family relations at BYU.

In 1969, she was named as an Outstanding Young Woman of America and has been nominated for Who's Who in America for 1977.

Miss Leifson has published several articles on nursing in professional journals.

Prior to joining the BYU faculty in 1971, she was with the University of Utah college of Nursing faculty, the Hawaii Health Department, the Salt Lake County Health Department, and the LDS Hospital. She holds current membership in several professional and honorary nursing societies and public health organizations.

In 1976, Miss Leifson attended the White House conference for the Handicapped Individual Resource Person as a communication committee member. She has also served as vice-president of the Utah Nurses Association.

2nd idea 'market' planned this week

Eighteen lectures on everything from synthetic diamonds to artists Hitler and poet Mao will be given at BYU Wednesday and Thursday in the second "Flea Market of Ideas" lecture series this fall.

Sponsored by the General Education Committee, the lectures are free and open to the public, according to Dr. Vernon J. Tipton, member of the committee. The series is an outgrowth of a successful summer faculty workshop conducted by Dr. Walter A. Gong, professor of natural science at San Jose State University.

The third two-day series will be Dec. 1-2.

Oct. 27 schedule is as follows: 9 a.m., 321 ELWC, Dr. Bill J. Pope, "Synthetic Diamonds and Diamond-Hard Materials"; 10 a.m., 321 ELWC, Clarence F. fun

The costumes, designed by Janet Swenson, are similar to those of Queen Elizabeth. Set and lighting designer Dr. Karl Pope has created the multi-leveled set for the purpose of staging a circus of emotion and wit.

Performing with "As You Like
It" on the evenings of Oct. 29 and
Nov. 2 will be the BYU Music Department's Madrigal Singers in a short concert at 7:50 p.m. on the Pardoe Stage. Patrons attending the theatre on those two nights are urged to be seated by 7:45 p.m.

The Madrigal Singers will be presenting authentic Shakespearean era Madrigal songs.

Tickets are still available at the theatre ticket office at $1 for full time students, and $2.25 General Admission.

'Harvey' auditions to be held

Auditions for the BYU Department of Theatre and Cinematic Arts' comic production of "Harvey" will be Wednesday and Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m.

The auditions will be held in the Margaret's Arena Theatre. All those wishing to audition are invited to try out by presenting a one-minute comic scene.
"Harvey" will be directed by Ivan

Crosland, director of the Theatre and Cinematic Arts acting program. Brother Crosland is known for his success with the two original dramas "Huebener" and "Returning."

"Harvey" is the comedy of the relationship between mild-mannered Elwood P. Dowd and a six-foot tall rabbit named Harvey. The comedy enters when Elwood tries to introduce Harvey to his friends because Harvey is invisible to all but Elwood.

BYU's thrashing of Utah State Saturday provided more than a 45-14 romp for the Cougars.

Along with Gifford Nielsen's NCAA single-game 76 season passing mark of 468 yards school and stadium records were set in the contest.

The Cougars and the Aggies combined to tally 99 passing attempts, which equaled a 1965 performance by the same teams. Of the 99 attempts, 53 receptions were tallied, which bettered the 1973 aerial show between BYU and New Mexico, where 52 receptions were recorded.

The win gave the Cats another chance to bolster their confidence for this week's meeting with Arizona State.

"We came through in good shape physically. We decided to hold Dana Wilgar and Steve Miller out for next week and not risk them getting hurt again," said Coach LaVell Edwards.

The Sun Devils, after a disappointing start, have won their last two games, beating New Mexico 31-15 last Saturday in Tempe, to virtually knock the Lobos out of the WAC race.

BYU and ASU are tied in the WAC standings at 2-1 each, behind surprise conference leader Wyoming, who rolled past Utah 45-22.

The Cowboys had another fine day on the ground, racking up 465 yards via the wishbone. Sophomore quarterback Marc Cousins led the Pokes' ground gainers with 104 yards.

ASU quarterback Dennis Sproul, was praised by the Sun Devils' Frank Kush for his three-touchdown performance against the Lobos.

"Dennis played exceptionally well and our offensive line made a big difference," Kush said.

Safety, John Harris returned a punt for the fourth ASU touchdown and the coach's son Dan Kush, added two field goals that completed the scoring for ASU.

In other WAC games, Colorado State added its third straight victory with a 28-7 triumph over winless Texas-El Paso. The improved CSU Rams meet Wyoming next Saturday in what could be the deciding game for the WAC champion.

Arizona met eighth-ranked Texas-Tech and came away on the short end of a 52-27 drubbing.

CSU displayed an impressive ground game with 276 yards. Quarterback Dan Graham hit paydirt twice, and running back Ron Harris added six points after a 60-yard punt return by Harry Washington.

UTEP got its only touchdown on sophomore quarterback Steve Smith's one-yard run.

The Arizona Wildcats allowed unbeaten Texas-Tech 428 yards rushing in their defeat Saturday and could only manage two scoring passes.

Next Saturday's contest between BYU and ASU will break the tie for second in the standings. BYU finds itself in a must-win situation if it is to maintain its Fiesta Bowl hopes. The Cougars are the only team to appear in the post-season extravaganza besides Arizona State.

Y harriers win meet, set record

TEMPE — Benton Hart broke a course record for the second time this season to lead the BYU harriers to their fourth consecutive victory.

Hart's new record was set on a rainy day when the course had to be altered to avoid a muddy course. His time of 24:25 came on a course that is pretty much the same one to be used for the WAC championships in November.

BYU's score was 23, followed by New Mexico with 37 points and the Arizona State with 78.

Henry Marsh also broke the old course record, finishing in 24:29 for second place. Peter Butler from New Mexico was third.

Arthur Redhair of BYU continued to prove himself as a consistently high finisher. The junior college transfer took fourth and has not placed lower than that this season.

"In some aspects I'm pleased and some I'm not," Coach Sherald James said after the meet.

He said the runners were too far apart. "We are going to need our top seven in the top 18 runners in the WAC meet," James added.

BYU took five of the top 10 individual spots in the triangular meet Saturday, but Arid Wathne and Jay Woods fell to the 11th and 12th places.

"They didn't have one of our better races," their coach said.

However, James was pleased with Scott Orlander and Blaine Anderson who finished 7th and 9th respectively. "Anderson did very well for a freshman," James said.

Y gridders honored

The following BYU football players were chosen for recognition by the coaching staff following Saturday's BYU-Utah State game:

Keith Uperesa — offensive line
Jeff Blanc — running backs
Gifford Nielsen — quarterback, receivers
Craig Jensen — defensive backs
Larry Miller — linebackers
Bill Rice — defensive line
Dave Lowry — specialty teams

Mekeli Jeremia and Rice were nominated for WAC defensive player of the week and Nielsen was chosen WAC offensive player of the week. He was also chosen to the UPI National Backfield of the Week, along with Tony Dorsett (Pitt), Andre Herrera (Southern Illinois) and George Woodward (Texas A&M).

The last Cougar so honored by UPI was Gary Shiede in 1974.

The tennis team hosted the Intermountain Conference northern sectionals this weekend, which emerged from the competition with a record and alone in the first place in the conference.

BYU met Northern Colorado and Colorado State and defeated both schools 9-0. Coach Ann pleased by her team's performance. "I was pleased we played with Northern the easiest one we played," she said.

The scores were top-sided in our favor, a better team, but all of our kids played fine tennis against them."

BYU played Colorado State and was in the Rams provided some very good tennis against them."

"We weren't quite as sharp for CSU," she said. "Suzie Brown's timing was off a bit, but she had slow starts."

BYU's action was the last conference play of the season until the second portion of the season begins in the spring.

Women's field hockey team played a game with the BYU Stars this weekend stars 5-1.

BYU's Lewis was happy with the team's performance in light of several changes that were made. "We had some line-up changes last week," said, "and our team was rather far as far as playing together. We tried a few things and were pleased when we could play field hockey we wanted to play."

Grid Kittens beaten by AFA

BYU's jayvee football team was the first team this season to score more than six points against the Air Force Academy varsity reserve team, but still lost to the Falcons on Friday, 28-13.

The game was tied at the half, but the Falcons came back in the third quarter to score two touchdowns and added another in the fourth.

Air Force fumbled seven times, but the Kittens, now 1-3, could only recover three.

BYU punter Clay Brown averaged 53.7 for seven punts.

Quarterback Mark Flammer suffered a leg injury in the game and reserve QB Brian received a mild concussion in the fourth quarter, but Flammer managed to finish out the game for the Kittens.

Friday, the Kittens meet Snow College at 1:30 p.m. at Provo High. Snow is ranked ninth in the nation.

Pitt runner sets record

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "I'm hoping I can push that record up so far that no one can ever dream of beating it," said Pitt's Tony Dorsett, who became major college football's all-time leading rusher in Saturday's 45-0 triumph over Navy.

His 3,206 yards erased the record of 5,177 set last year by Ohio State's Archie Griffin.

BYU ruggers win two games

By GAYLE BARNETT
Universe Sports Writer

Friday night on Haws Field in front of a good-sized rugby crowd, BYU-White defeated the Salt Lake City Club, 23-19. The blue team defeated Utah State Saturday, 24-20.

In Friday's contest Salt Lake had several high school players filling positions left vacant by missing players. SLC led off the scoring with a three-point field goal. BYU's Lonnie Brown made a break-through and set Ray Morgan up for BYU's first four points. Steve Christchoov attempted the kick for two extra points, but it went wide.

Four Cougars made touchdowns against Salt Lake. Ray Morgan got the first score, followed by Brian Bailey, Matt Brown and Lonnie Brown. In addition, Matt Brown made a penalty kick for three points, and Steve Christchoov added four.

Several players were hurt slightly during the game, but all were able to get up and continue playing. Two men from each team were ejected, and Bart Fenton didn't play because of an eye injury he received from a car-wash nozzle that morning.

"Officiating has been quite a problem at times. It hasn't been as strict as it should," Coach Brown said. "Hector Tahu (Brown's assistant) is one of the top qualified officials around here. He had confidence and showed how it should be done." Saturday morning BYU-Blue met Utah State-A in a much-disputed battle. "We had a few scores that USU questioned, but we felt we had some bad calls, too," Brown said.

Mark Layton made the first try of the BYU victory. Brown attempted the kick, which hit the pole and bounced out.

Nebeker ran the next one in on the opposite side of the field and Brown's kick was good.

Sioni Lati, an ex-BYU player, kicked the ball into USU's end zone but was not able to fall on it before it went out. Some time later a USU player made a good run from just inside the half-way line. He dropped the ball forward and Lati touched it down in the end zone. It was ruled no good because of the forward drop and brought out for a scrum.

BYU got the ball back to its end of the field, where Tahu got control of it in a lineout and set Scott Jepson up for a score. Brown's kick went wide. He was given another opportunity however, because USU yelled as he was attempting the first.

"On a kick to the goal, the other team cannot yell or distract," Brown said. The second attempt hit the pole and went wide again, leaving the score at half time 14-0.

"We ran up a pretty easy score during the first half," Brown commented. "But they made some major changes and brought in some more guys for the second. They really came back at us."

USU came out and scored three unanswered touchdowns and two successful kicks. This gave the Aggies sixteen points and the lead.

Matt Brown put BYU back in the lead on a "hotly disputed play," according to Bob Cook, the touch judge. "The ref called it out, but I didn't see him go out, so it was ruled good."

USU scored another four points answered by two penalty kicks, one of which was doubtful. "I didn't see the kick go through, but it was on the other side, and that touch judge said it was good," Cook said. "USU outplayed BYU the second half."

One USU player left the game after a particularly hard hit.

"We were lucky to pull it off," Brown said. "They led us up to the last four minutes."

Ray Morgan did a heck of a job. He pressured their fullback and had great pursuit," Brown said. "Mark Layton made an important touchdown for us and had some really good breaks."

"For the last six or eight years, BYU had dominated rugby here. Because it has been played in this area for several years and BYU graduates are playing for other teams now, the competition is really getting strong," according to Brown. "The league has improved tremendously. We used to win by about 50 points, but the other teams are picking up."

"I'm glad for the close game we had. I saw some mistakes we've got to iron out," BYU had some trouble with kicks, but managed to make the important ones.

Entries due soon

Entries for men's basketball are due Friday at the Intramurals Office, 112 RB.

Play doesn't begin until January, but teams must be filed, and two officials per team submitted, so the officials can go through a training period during November. Rosters can be changed and added to prior to January.

Playoffs for men's flag football 2A and 3A teams begins this week.

Petty looks for victory

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Richard Petty is still searching for victory.

He's winning races again, but his Dodge is still not capable of beating everybody.

And that's what concerns him. "This is the best we've run all year, so maybe this means better days are ahead," Petty said of the rapidly winding down Grand National stock car season, after he won Sunday's American 500 here. "We didn't finish up last year too strong, even though we won 13 races. And we didn't start out real good this year."

"I'm hoping a strong finish now will give us a push in the right direction to start next season."

Of the tracks remaining on the schedule, North Carolina Motor Speedway's 1.017-mile oval provides the best chance for a Petty victory: David Pearson is almost unbeatable on the bigger tracks; Cale Yarborough invincible on the shorter ones.

Bowlers challenge

There will be a challenge round for the university men's bowling team today at 4:15 p.m. in the Games Center, ELWC.

Any men interested in challenging for a position on the varsity team should be in attendance, according to team captain Shawn Brady.

Tourney will begin

The intramural chess tournament begins today and will run through Thursday.

Signups are still being taken until 6 p.m. today in 112 RB.

The tournament will begin at 6 p.m. in 106 RB and continue till 10 p.m.

Y Soccer Cats win 3; women play first game

The BYU Soccer Cats scored three convincing wins over intermountain college teams last weekend.

On Friday the Cats trounced Metro State from Denver, Colo., 5-1. Saturday morning the Jr. Cougars routed Weber State 12-1, while at 5 p.m. the Varsity Cats blanked the University of Utah, 10-0.

The newly formed BYU women's soccer team also scored a shut-out over the University of Utah, 1-0. Any woman wishing to participate in the soccer program should contact Sharon Benson. Practices are held Friday and Saturday at Haws Field or Smith Fieldhouse from 10 a.m. until noon.

Against Metro, Hans Henchen opened the scoring when he rifled a 20-yard shot into the Metro goal. A minute later Hugo Rodier made an outstanding assist to forward Steve Osborne for the second goal.

In the second half a Metro player tried to pass the ball back to his own half but the ball was pushed straight into the goal by Steve Osborne to intercept an easy shot into the Metro net. Rodier also came in as second assist as he made a set up for Bruce Cook to boot goal.

Against Utah, Cliff Taber opened the scoring with a 20-yard shot into the Metro goal. A minute later Hugo Rodier made an outstanding assist to forward Steve Osborne for the second goal.

The rather remarkable new Pulsar® that's a calculator and Time Computer® combined

No larger than a good-sized man's wristwatch. Adds... subtracts... divides... multiplies... figures percentages... tells the time, month, and date.

This new Pulsar begins where the world's finest watches end. One hundred serially-numbered models, each in a solid 18 kt. gold case with matching solid 18 kt. gold band, should be available in time for Christmas in the entire United States.

Six-digit display, 12-digit calculating capability. Ideal gift for the executive who had everything up until the time you read this announcement. $350. First come, first served. No mail or phone orders.
